

Sgt Carter

I joined as a Special Constable in 2017. Last year I successfully progressed to the rank of Sergeant. I really enjoy my role in the Special Constabulary – it's diverse, challenging and rewarding.

My role complements my day job as a Facilities Manager for the National Trust. Skills I have learnt as a Special, such as resilience, people management, decision making, and teamwork are all transferable to my day job.

Being a Special Constable makes you more aware of who you are, your strengths, your weaknesses, it helps build lifelong friends whilst giving something back to your community.

Why not Volunteer as a Special Constable in Devon and Cornwall and make a difference in your Community
